

Michelle Roberts is in her third year as a Learning Specialist for the Center for Student Athlete Services. Roberts is responsible for working with all student athletes with documented disabilities. She administers screening tools, arranges pyschoeducational testing, implements learning strategies, teaches the Summer Bridge study skills course, and is the liaison with on-campus resources. After receiving her Bachelor of Science degree for Learning Disabilities in 1991 from the University of South Florida she taught high school in Hillsborough County for ten years. During that time she continued her education earning a Master's degree in Education, Educational Leadership from the University of South Florida in 2001. Before arriving at A&M Roberts was the Learning Specialist at the University of Florida for three years, working both in the Dean of Students Office and the University Athletic Association. Roberts has been a member of the National Association of Academic Advisors for Athletics since 2005. Roberts is married to Dr. Grady Roberts, professor in the Agricultural Leadership, Education, and Communication Department at Texas A&M, and has two children, Elizabeth and Alexander.